

Highlights Mardi Gras Here

Court Ceremony Following Parade Charming Pageant

Blanketed by two stilted columns of the Court (Queen, Mary Alice McManis, Misses in waiting, and other members of the royal entourage) stood Henry Monte, His Majesty King of the Mardi Gras, waving his scepter to all his subjects and bidding them be merry.

The parade passed the Courthouse where the King toasted his queen and received the keys to the city from Mayor Walter Carter.

After continuing over the prescribed route, the parade disbanded at Bay High School, where the queen and her ladies awaited the male members of the Royal Court.

A grand march was staged in the gym, which was beautifully decorated to represent a Southern Garden. Myriads of flowers bloomed, roses climbed on the trellises and vines and blooms of all varieties adorned the picket fences.

The girls, dressed in ante bellum costumes of pastel organdies, carried bouquets of spring flowers. The junior maids had the same costumes with one in pink and one in blue. Train bearers to the queen were attired in yellow and orange frocks of the same era.

The Queen's dress was of gold and white. The bodice was fashioned of gold lame cloth from which golden leaves outlined in gold sequins gracefully cascaded from the waist over the bouffant skirt of white tulle. The neckline of the dress was embroidered with gold sequins and her lovely mantle was of white lined, in gold satin, with huge golden roses scattered on it.

The court and their guests were entertained by dancers summoned by His Highness. The two little Miller sisters, Beverly and Gayle, greatly pleased the audience with ballet and acrobatic numbers. A march of the Maskers followed and one of the brightest nights ever staged in Bay High Gym was the tableau when all of the court with the maskers were grouped on the floor of the gym.

Mardi Gras, with King Chicapoula and his court, made history for 1968 in Bay St. Louis.

TWO HURT WHEN CAR CRASHES TREE

Curtis Ledner of Bay St. Louis and Warren Hale of Long Beach were injured when the car in which they were riding collided with a tree on a dirt road Tuesday night about 7:00.

Both men were taken to King's Daughters Hospital in Bay St. Louis. Hale, owner and driver of the car, received head injuries and is still a patient at the hospital. However, his condition is reported "not critical" and he is improving.

Ledner, who was thrown from the car and was found unconscious, received lacerations over the right eye and on the chin and sustained a leg injury. He was given emergency treatment and later returned to his home. He is an employee of the local post office.

CAR IS STOLEN WHILE OWNERS AT CHURCH

While Mr. and Mrs. Allen Maufrey were attending church services their car was stolen from in front of the church.

The car, a Chevrolet, was taken by a man in a dark suit, wearing a mask, and driving a dark car. The car was seen leaving the church grounds at about 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 10.

Maufrey was notified by the police at 11:30 p. m. Tuesday night that they had recovered the car and he plans to leave today to pick it up.

The tableau followed an original poem by Karen Kergosien, a student of the Academy:

"Along about twilight, at the day's repose Comes a lovely maiden, bound for no one knows.
Yet, all the little creatures in enchanted forest gay
Dance about her, prance about her, intreat her there to stay.
Beautiful princess, in flowing gown of twilight,
Nestled in a rose, dreams of Prince
Charming bright.
The dancing sprightly nymphs, her wishes, their command,
Lead her true love to her, who takes her by the hand.
He tenderly implores her to banish
all her fears.
Their she consents to be his own and love him all the years.

Camellia Carnival was the theme used for the annual Camellia Show sponsored by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club. The show was staged at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Thursday, Feb. 12.

The regular monthly meeting at 3 p. m. was followed by a social hour during which the lovely display of camellias blossoms and artistic arrangements were enjoyed by members and their guests. From 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. the show was open to the public.

The entrance to the show depicted a true carnival spirit. It was outlined in scrolls of foil upon which hung numerous colorful carnival masks. Between the masks were placed large red camellias. On a table was a small float covered in silver with a silver canopy under which sat a miniature queen. The entire float was carried with pink perfection camellias. In front of the table was a large poster made by Mrs. Eddie Arceneaux, which beautifully expressed the theme of the show. The float and entrance was created by Mrs. A. G. Dantagan, Staging Chairman for the show, and Mrs. Ed. M. Heath.

The Schedule Chairman, Mrs. P. J. Treutel, carried out the carnival theme in the Artistic Division by the following classification:

Glamour and Glitter, Dancing At The Ball of Louis XIV, Gay Nineties, Mikado and Crowning Glory.

Many unusual and unique arrangements were entered in each of these classes. Outstanding arrangement, which won the Tri-Color Award, was made by Mrs. L. T. Boyd and was entered in the "Mikado" class.

Many beautiful blossoms were entered in the horticultural division, with Mrs. J. D. Vaughn's Ville de Nantes winning the Tri-Color Award as the most outstanding camellia of the show.

The Junior division, handled by Mrs. Ben Hill, Chairman of Juniors, was one of beauty and amazement. The arrangements, corsages, wristlets and hair-dos showed workmanship equal to many of the elders.

In the invitational section, many beautiful collections were displayed. These were submitted by individual growers and camellia enthusiasts.

The Sweepstakes ribbon, painted by Mrs. T. A. Quigley, was won by Mrs. J. D. Vaughn.

According to Sheriff John Egoiff Willis, a foreman at the Chrysler Plant in New Orleans, stated he sounded his horn but the child failed to hear him. Willis said he swerved his car, knocking down two small boys in an attempt to avoid hitting the boy.

Willis was charged with reckless driving and placed under $100 bond, the men were escorted by members and sheriff said.

Foley Ambulance Service rushed the boy to King's Daughters Hospital and then to Charity Hospital in New Orleans. The boy was unconscious for several hours.

Herby Peterson, 6, and Wayne Peterson, 4, wanted to do something to help the two little girls on the March of Dimes posters. Every time they saw one of the iron lung coin boxes they urged their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson of Clermont Harbor, to drop coins in.

Their father pointed out that they themselves could help the little polio victims by saving their pennies. So, a year ago, they found an old coffee can to save their pennies in. Their can was rusty, and had a big dent in it, but they cut a coin slot in the top of it anyway, and started dropping their pennies.

When Mrs. S. J. Ingram, principal of the Clermont Harbor school where Herby is in the first grade, launched the March of Dimes fund drive at Hancock County March of Dimes school, Herby and Wayne lugged in their old rusty coffee can and turned it over to her. It still had the big dent, and had picked up another one or two during the year—but it also had 630 pennies inside. A lot of the pennies originally had been gathered for candy and bubble gum, but somehow they always wound up pushing down into the old coffee can—to help the little girls," they said.

The $6.39 swelled the total collection of Clermont Harbor school to $26.10. The school, which has only 37 pupils, had one of the highest average per person donations of all the schools in the County.

Herby and Wayne—who summed the whole thing up with "We found it really was better to give than to receive" when they made their donation—have already started on their next year's donation. Highlights Mardi Gras Here

Charming Pageant Following Parade

Planned by rose trained columns of the Court House, Queen Mary Alice Harkness, her ladies in waiting, and other members of the Royal entourage, the parade followed the parade through Bay St. Louis Tuesday night, waving his subjects to all his subjects and bidding them to be merry.

The parade passed at the Courthouse where the King seated his queen and received the keys to the city from Mayor Warren Carver.

A grand march was staged in the gym, which was beautifully decorated to represent a Southern Garden. Myriads of flowers bloomed, roses climbed on the trellises and vines and blooms of all varieties adorned the picket fences. Dogwood trees showered thousands of blossoms.

The girls, dressed in ante bellum costumes of pastel organdies, carried bouquets of spring flowers. The junior maids had the same costumes with one in pink and one in blue. Train bearers to the queen were attired in yellow and pink frocks of the same era.

The Queen's dress was of gold and white. The bodice was fashioned of gold lame cloth from which golden leaves outlined in gold sequins gracefully cascaded from the waist over the bouffant skirt of white tulle. The neckline of the dress was embroidered with gold sequins and her lovely mantle was of white lined in gold satin, with huge golden roses scattered on it. This fell from a modici collar of gold lame encrusted with golden sequins and she carried a scepter fashioned of yellow roses. Her crown was gold encrusted with sequins.

The King and his ladies, the Her-alds and Pages, were all attired as Southern gentlemen of the ante-bellum era, and with their cut-away coats, canes and top hats, they appeared true galleons.

The court and their guests were entertained by dancers summoned by His Highness. The two little Miller sisters, Beverly and Gayle, greatly pleased the audience with ballet and acrobatic numbers. A march of the Maskers followed and one of the brightest sights ever staged in Bay High Gym was the tableau when all of the court with the maskers were grouped on the floor of the gym.

Mardi Gras with King Chicapoula and his court made history for 1933 in Bay St. Louis.

Nestled in a rose, dreams of Prince
Charming bright.
The dancing sprightly nymphs, here

TWO HURT WHEN CAR CRASHES TREE

Curtis Ladner of Bay St. Louis and Warren Hale of Long Beach were injured when the car in which they were riding collided, plowed through a ditch and crashed into a tree on the Lakeshore road Tuesday night about 7:00.

Both men were taken to King's Daughters Hospital in Bay St. Louis. Hale, owner and driver of the car, received head injuries and is still a patient at the hospital. However, his condition is reported "not critical" and he is improving.

Ladner, who was thrown from the car and was found unconscious, received lacerations over the right eye and on the chin and sustained a leg injury. He was given emergency treatment and later returned to his home. He is an employee of the local post office.

The regular monthly meeting at 5 p. m. was followed by a social hour during which this lovely display of camellia blossoms and artistic arrangements were enjoyed by members and their guests. From 4 to 5 p. m. the show was open to the public.

The entrance to the show depicted a true carnival spirit. It was outlined in scrolls of full upon which hung numerous colorful carnival masks. Between the masks were placed large two camellias. On a table was a small float covered in silver with a silver canopy, under which was a miniature queen. The entire float was covered with pink perfection camellias. In front of the table was a large crown made by Mrs. Eddis Arceaux, which beautifully expressed the theme of the show. The float and entrance was created by Mrs. A. G. Dantagnan, Staging Chairman for the show, and Mrs. Ed. M. Heath.

The Schedule Chairman, Mrs. P. J. Treutel, carried out the carnival theme in the Artistic Division by the following classifications:

Glamour and Glitter, Dancing At The Ball of Louis XIV, Glay Ninastis, Mikado and Crowning Glory.

Many unusual and unique arrangements were entered in each of these classes. Outstanding arrangement, which won the Tri-Color Award, was made by Mrs. L. T. Boyd and was entered in the "Mikado" class.

Many beautiful blossoms were entered in the horticultural division, with Mrs. J. D. Vaughn's Ville de Nantes winning the Tri-Color Award as the most outstanding camellia of the show.

The Junior division, handled by Mrs. Ben Hill, Chairman of Juniors, was one of beauty and amazement. The arrangements, corsages, wristlets and hair-dos showed workmanship equal to many of their elders.

In the invitational section, many beautiful collections were displayed. These were submitted by individual growers and camellia enthusiasts.

The Sweepstakes ribbon, painted by Mrs. T. A. Quigley, was won by Mrs. J. D. Vaughn.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, the Bay Waveland Garden Club is holding its annual pilgrimage on March 4, 1934, and

WHEREAS, all civic organizations, churches and all individual home owners should cooperate in presenting a neat and tidy community to the visitors who will be in our midst during this annual pilgrimage;

IT IS THEREFORE KNOWN that I, Warren Carver, Mayor of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, do hereby declare the week of February 23 to 28, inclusive, as Community Clean-up Week.

WARREN CARVER, Mayor.

JOHN SAUCIER, 16, SERIOUSLY HURT

John Saucier, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Gertrude Foy Saucier, St. Charles Street, was injured seriously yesterday afternoon when the motor scooter he was riding on the beach road at Waveland was struck by a car driven by Martin D. Willis, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

According to Sheriff John Egoff Willis, a foreman at the Chrysler Plant in New Orleans, stated he wounded his son but the child failed to leave him. Willis said he reversed his car knocking down the small horse in an attempt to avoid hitting the boy.

Willis was charged with reckless driving and placed under $100 bond, the sheriff said.

Felony Ambulance Service rushed the boy to King's Daughters Hospital and then to Charity Hospital in New Orleans. The boy was unconscious for several hours.

His condition today was reported as "serious but not critical."

Herby Peterson, 6, and Wayne Peterson, 4, wanted to do something to help the two little girls on the March of Dimes posters. Every time they saw one of the iron lung coin boxes they urged their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson of Clermont Harbor, to drop coins in.

Their father pointed out that they themselves could help the little polio victims by saving their pennies. So, a year ago, they found an old coffee can to save their pennies in. Their can was rusty, and had a big dent in it, but they cut a coin slot in the top of it, anyway, and started dropping in pennies.

When Mrs. S. J. Ingram, principal of the Clermont Harbor school where Herby is in the first grade, launched the March of Dimes fund drive at school, Herby and Wayne lugged in their old rusty coffee can and turned it over to her. It still had the big dent, and had picked up another one or two during the year—but it also had 630 pennies inside. A lot of the

Mrs. Earl Loomis, 32, a passenger on the ill-fated plane that crashed into the Gulf of Mexico Saturday, was the only granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bruff of de Montauzin St.

Mrs. Loomis, who resided at Tampa, Fla., with her husband and two small children, a boy of three and a daughter, six, was enroute to visit her grandparents for the first time since they had built in the Bay.

Her husband came to Bay St. Louis Tuesday from Mobile, where he had gone to see if the body of his wife was among those recovered.

So far no identification has been made, it was reported.

Son of Local Man Dies As F-84 Jet Crashes Tuesday

A twenty-four year old airman from Shreveport La., son of a local resident, was killed in the crash of an F-84 jet plane; just 24 hours after he crashed when overshooting a runway at the base.

The victim was 2nd Lt. Monte Earl Strong, son of Earl G. Strong of Bay St. Louis. Lt. Strong escaped injury Monday morning when he apparently overshot a runway in another F-84, only to crash fatally Tuesday when his ship went down at Gila Bend gunnery range.

He is survived by his wife, Jennine, who lives at nearby Goodyear, Ariz., his mother, Mrs. Mildred Miller of Shreveport, La., his father, Earl G. Strong of Bay St. Louis, and a sister, Mrs. Barbara Ann Sneed of Shreveport.

He also is survived by numerous aunts, uncles and cousins, most of whom are residents of Bay St. Louis.

Lt. Strong was on his last training flight in the U.S. Prior to overseas service when the tragedy occurred.

Members of the family who will leave Friday morning to attend the funeral, tentatively scheduled to be held in Shreveport Saturday morning, are: Mrs. W. A. Scarborough and son, Billy, Mrs. C. M. Strong, his grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnson and Leray Strong and his son, Kermit, of Columbus, Miss.

JOHN THOMAS ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY IN HIGHWAY 90 CRASH

John Thomas, driving his car on Highway 90, had a head-on collision Tuesday evening with a car driven by a soldier from Keesler Field. There were no other passengers in either car.

Both cars were badly damaged, but neither of the boys sustained serious injury. They were taken by Felony Ambulance to King's Daughters Hospital where they received emergency treatment.

Members of the Senior Class of St. Bonaventure participated in the Krewe of Citizens parade following the parade of King on Mardi Gras in New Orleans. The float was decorated following a Western motif, and the boys and girls on it were dressed in Western garb.

pennies originally had been earmarked for candy and bubble gum, but somehow they always wound up plunking down into the old coffee can—to help the little girls," they said.

The $6.30 swelled the total collection of Clermont Harbor school to $20.10. The school, which has only 32 pupils, had one of the highest average per person donations of all the schools in the County.

Herby and Wayne—who summed the whole thing up with "We found it really was better to give than to receive" when they made their donation—have already started on their next year's donation. But they won't have to use their old rusty coffee can with the dent in it this year unless they want to, because Mrs. Theo Tudary Hancock County March of Dimes Chairman, presented them with a brand new iron lung contribution box to save their pennies in.

"It's little workers like these that help to put the March of Dimes drive over," said Mrs. Tudary.

Sweetheart Banquet Held Friday

Thomas Webb and Patsy Favre reigned as King and Queen of the "Sweetheart" banquet of the Baptist Training Union held in the church annex Friday evening.

Planned and supervised by Mrs. T. R. Murray, director, and Mrs. S. M. Batson, assistant director, the banquet had the valentine motif as the theme. Jack Buice served as Master of Ceremonies.

Long tables arranged in U shapes served the guests. The King and Queen occupied center seats at the main table.

"Sweethearts" of other divisions of the BTU were:

Adults—O. W. Ramsey and Mrs. Charles Moore;

Young People's Group—Ted Perry and Mary Ramsey;

Juniors—Perry Patterson and Ann Morrales;

Primaries—Wayne and Marge Patterson;

Beginners—Burnell Necaise and Marion Cospelich;

Nursery—Martha Ellen Batson.

Short skits were given by each Union and reports were heard from the officers.

Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Batson were assisted in arranging and serving by a number of the women of the church, and expressed appreciation for the aid given by them.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

W. E. Smith, Editor of Public Opinion
Box 1000, Nashville, Tenn.

During the 11 years of the existence of the Social Security Act it has been criticized by a great many good citizens who really did not understand what it was intended to do.

Whenever the public in general understands a program its fate is soon determined, for a great majority of the people of this State and Nation are anxious and willing to do the right thing about every matter. Where the proposition is considerably complicated, like that of the State Welfare Program, it naturally takes longer for all the facts about it to get out to the masses of the people.

Co. Agent's Notes

BY HOWARD SIMMONS
Hancock County Agent

POULTRY

"Cheap" Chickens Don't Cheap Long! Poultry specialists say that there is no such thing as a cheap chick. Those that you buy at low prices are likely to be disease ridden. They may be in a weakened condition due to long shipment. They may be just generally of poor quality.

Do not take a chance of getting diseased chicks. Buy your chicks from a Mississippi hatchery. All Mississippi hatchery chicks are either U.S. Endorsed Poultry or Clean.

CORN

Every acre of corn that you plant can be made to produce as much as 50 bushels to the acre provided you follow recommendations and get sufficient rain.

Select land that does not dry out too much. Don't put your best cotton land in corn, but do plant your best land to corn.

Fertilizer recommendations, provide the Delta, are 50 pounds each of nitrogen, phosphate and potash per acre. This can be obtained from any good mixed fertilizer. When available, the corn should be side-dressed with 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

Select a recommended variety. Check with your county agent to find out the best varieties for your area.

Don't put all your eggs in one basket. All of other crops are planted. The corn land that plant over at the proper time. Usually early planted corn does better than late planted corn.

A good starting to use is 15 to 20 bushels per acre at 100,000 corn. Usually this means 10 to 14 inches of plant spacing per acre. A good rule of thumb is to have 100,000 ears of corn per acre.

Always have your corn planted in rows. To have rows 30 inches apart is usually better than 24 inches apart. Spacing rows on the north-south line is usually better than east-west.

Low level irrigation is a very important factor in corn production. It is a good idea to have a good system of irrigation. It is a good idea to have a good system of irrigation. It is a good idea to have a good system of irrigation.

Representing his appreciation for the appointment, Stennis said he was "very glad of the opportunity it presents, not only because of the vast forest holdings throughout the nation, but because the national forest program in my own state ties into our State Forest Development program, which has shown such splendid development in recent years."

"The vital importance of trees farming and timber conservation," Stennis said, "is best pointed up by the estimate that by 1975 unless we show great improvement the annual growth of new timber will be 40 to 42 billion board feet short of the 55 billion we will need."

"Forests are a replaceable resource and in the years ahead we must devote ourselves to the task of growing new timber to meet our state and national requirements," the senator said.

Stennis pointed out that at this time the federal government owns in national forests a net total of 180,153,300 acres. In Mississippi the net acreage is 988,500.

"The vital importance of trees farming and timber conservation," Stennis said, "is best pointed up by the estimate that by 1975 unless we show great improvement the annual growth of new timber will be 40 to 42 billion board feet short of the 55 billion we will need."

"Forests are a replaceable resource and in the years ahead we must devote ourselves to the task of growing new timber to meet our state and national requirements," the senator said.

Stennis pointed out that at this time the federal government owns in national forests a net total of 180,153,300 acres. In Mississippi the net acreage is 988,500.

Representing his appreciation for the appointment, Stennis said he was "very glad of the opportunity it presents, not only because of the vast forest holdings throughout the nation, but because the national forest program in my own state ties into our State Forest Development program, which has shown such splendid development in recent years."

NEW INDUSTRY SEEN FOR PORT GIBSON

The historic 165-year-old town moved further into the industrial age this week with announcement from the National Production Authority at Washington that priority for materials for a new industry to be established in Port Gibson had been approved.

Final execution of the contract between the town of Port Gibson and the American Paper Tube Company was also announced by Mayor Englewood.

The company, with plants located in the East, manufactures bobbins, quills and similar items out of treated paper for the textile industry. Full employment will be about 200 workers.

Miss Russ' fifth grade gave a play called "A Valentine for Tommy" Friday, Feb. 13. The first scene took place in a schoolroom with Martha Allison taking the part of the teacher. Mary Ann Fabin played a piano solo, and Beverly Miller and Fred Pernicelli danced. Other children taking part were Tommy Johnson, Buddy Martin, Bill Watts, Floyd Christy, Ann Morreale and Gerald Favre.

PRACTICAL COURSE IN ART OF LIVING

UNIVERSITY, Miss. — Hundreds of high school students, many of them from Hancock County, are expected on the campus of the University of Mississippi, April 24 - 25.

The occasion will be the seventh annual meeting of the Press Institute, state-wide organization of high school editors.

This year a large number of new schools is expected to be represented at the meeting, because of the increase in school membership, according to Dr. Gerald Forbes, Chairman of the Department of Journalism at the University.

"There are several reasons for the increased membership," he explained. "One reason is the recognition of the value of the Press Institute to the high schools in producing their publications." Another reason is the fact that the school dues have been reduced to two dollars, thus placing membership within reach of even the smallest institutions.

The second issue of the Institute's publication, the BULLETIN, now is in the mails as a part of the service to the school sponsors and editors. The BULLETIN contains instructions and suggestions for producing and improving school publications.

The meeting in April, being planned jointly by the University Department of Journalism and Conferences and Institutes, will be devoted to discussions of ways to produce better high school papers and yearbooks. The staffs of school publications will have an opportunity to learn answers to many editorial and business problems, according to Dr. Forbes.

'The Blazing Forest,' Saga of Lumberjacks, Playing at Star Theatre Sun., Mon.

The rousing saga of the man whose brawn and muscle fell the forest giants of America's last frontier is thrillingly told in Paramount's new outdoor Technicolor drama, "The Blazing Forest," which plays at the Star Theatre, Sunday and Monday, Feb. 22-23.

Produced by William Pine and William Thomas, this action-packed story of the timber wars of the great Northwest stars John Payne in one of his most outstanding roles.

He is seen as the boss foreman of logging camp, whose relentless devotion to his work leads him into a series of emotional and dramatic events.

Richard Arlen and William Demarest are associated with Payne in the logging operation and their opposition to a methods - draws conflict between men into sharp focus. The charming distaff co-stars are Agnes Moorehead, as the widow of a lumberjack and Susan Morrow at the attractive orphanage she raised.

Filed in and around some of the largest lumber camps in Northern California and Nevada, "The Blazing Forest" seethes with the tangle of surging drama. Its story unfolds against the rugged background of the giant trees which stand, in all their grandeur, to challenge man's efforts to harness their potential usefulness.

The gripping plot is brought to its spectacular climax when a forest fire - deadliest foe of timber and the man who harvest it - erupts with all its savage fury. Filmed in blazing technicolor, this conflagration reportedly tops anything yet seen in motion pictures. The flames literally leap from the screen as acres of timber fall into the relentless path of the wind-whipped blaze.

Every modern method of combating forest fires is brought into play. The Forestry service goes into action - fire watchers man their posts; the shovels, bulldozers and even helicopter pilots all combine forces in the face of the common foe. Nature on a rampage has seldom been seen on a scale so awe-inspiring as the furious flames engulf the entire forest.

To insure realism in telling their story, Producers Pine and Thomas arranged for the use of 20,000 acres of actual timber land. They further utilized the services of countless lumberjacks who turned actor for the occasion. This together with an enormous amount of actual logging equipment combines to give "The Blazing Forest" an authenticity which adds much to the dramatic impact of the story.
